The War Today...

IT IS HARDLY PROPER to refer to the impending "rescue" of the British airborne troops at Arnhem. You don't rescue men who, deliberately assigned to a difficult post, stand and slug regardless of odds. You don't rescue men who laugh and curse the enemy's surrender suggestions.

Nor, strictly speaking, is the advancing British Second army a "rescue" column. It may have that effect on the encircled airborne troops. But technically the whole operation is part of an offensive, deliberately planned so that General Breton's air army could help clear the way for the main armies in their advance across the Holland water barriers. The second army is heading for the capture of Arnhem and the invasion of German Ruhr. It's not a "rescue" job.

There is a difference between the air army which deliberately put itself in the German circle and an army which has walked into a trap. Sunday, Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, Friday, Saturday, a week, every day longer than the last, every man a target for German field pieces which can be countered only with comparatively light equipment which could be flown in.

A correspondent with them writes of the German surrender broadcast: "It was a silly thing to do. It made these chaps hopping mad. You should have heard their language." And another writes: "And though our men, some of them, are hard put to it not to fall asleep over their guns, they go on fighting and go on attacking and one day perhaps the world will learn the full story of what they have done here."

Men fighting unflinchingly for their objective, fulfilling their orders. Men the world will cheer when their support arrives. But not men to be "rescued."

Roosevelt Maps Radio Talk; Dewey Offers Security Plan

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23—President Roosevelt—"the champ" to his political assistants—had his final workout at the White House today before his verbal bout tonight with the opposition in his historic bid for a fourth term.

Four of his speech consultants were on hand late last night and early today giving a wealth of material a going-over with blue pencil before the President himself compressed it to the 3,000 words he allows himself for a half-hour radio talk.

He speaks at a dinner of the International Teamsters union (AFL) in the Statler hotel from 9:30 to 10 p. m. Eastern wartime NBC and CBS, the same labor unit that heard his first campaign speech in the third term drive. The topic has not been announced, but it was fairly obvious the speech would include a fresh appeal to the labor vote and perhaps a few shots at charges made by Gov. Thomas E. Dewey against his administration.

In accepting a fourth-term nomination in July, the President said he would not campaign in the usual political sense, but reserve the right to reply to any "misrepresentations" uttered by the opposition.

Except for two recent news conference remarks, Mr. Roosevelt has kept his 1944 campaign under wraps. He told a questioner at his semi-weekly interview yesterday that he did not think his administration has become saturated with defeatist theories as charged often by the Republican presidential candidate on his western tour.

Several weeks ago, replying to another Dewey accusation that the President and his aides were a tired, quarrelsome and defeatist group, the chief executive recalled that he had said before that he wished to retire to his Hyde park home but not because he was tired or defeated.

The President's immediate audience tonight will be about 900 union delegates from all over the United States and a few from Canada.

2 Salem Brothers, One Wounded, Hold Reunion in England

There are many happy reunions of old friends who find each other on the battlefields or on leave in a war zone, but when two brothers meet for the first time in 18 months, that calls for a celebration. This delightful scene was enacted recently at the American Red Cross club in Grantham, England, when Orin and Gerald Franks of Salem, finally got together.

Sergeant Gerald Franks, whose wife, Mrs. Gerald Franks, formerly of Salem, now lives at 23 Sheridan ave., Niles, has been in the Army three years, and overseas 12 months. He is with the 9th Air Force.

Pfc. Orin Franks, who is with the infantry, has been in the Army two years, and overseas three months, six weeks of which he was in combat.

Orin wrote home that he had been wounded in combat and was recuperating in hospital in England. In due time, this news reached Gerald, who set out to find him with the help of the American Red Cross. A meeting was finally arranged, and the American Red Cross club in Grantham fairly glowed with reflected happiness.

Orin and Gerald are sons of Mrs. Fred Franks of 464 Perry st.

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 23—Pledged to a social security program that would encompass the 20,000,000 persons he said were not now protected, Gov. Thomas E. Dewey hurried through a round of conference here today before boarding his special train for Oklahoma City and the last major speech of this campaign swing.

In Los Angeles' huge open-air stadium last night, the Republican presidential nominee told a cheering throng of 90,000 that Americans had learned to work together so well in war that they are determined to cooperate to see that the aged, the ill and the unemployed have security in the future.

In making his points on social security legislation, Dewey said the act was passed by a non-partisan vote of overwhelming proportions in 1935, and that just once in the nine years since it has been any attempt to improve or extend that social progress.

"That was in 1935," said the Republican nominee. "A few changes were made. There have been many recommendations since but there have been no results."

Dewey offered this program:

1. Expansion of old age and survivors' insurance to provide coverage for farmers, domestic workers, employees of non-profit enterprises, self-employed persons, government workers, domestic help, and members of the armed forces whose benefits would be reduced by their service.

2. Widening of unemployment insurance "to include the groups which are now unprotected."

3. Return of the employment service to the states and its merger with unemployment insurance agencies.

4. Development, in co-operation with "our free and independent medical profession," of a means for assurance of medical service to those of our citizens who need it and who cannot otherwise obtain it.

5. Establishment by the states and local communities of an information service to tell veterans where to get jobs, how to get benefits under the GI bill and how to continue their education.

Two Assemblies For Students Planned

Salem High school students will have two assembly programs, the first on Wednesday, to be presented by Jessie Ray Taylor, the only woman member of the famous Wig and Greasepaint club, and the second, Nov. 16, by John Sloane, a demonstration of the use of liquid air.

Plans for a series of one-act plays, the first one to be directed by Pat Keener and Sally Campbell, have been completed by the Thespian club. Juniors and seniors will be eligible for roles in the first, "Wildcat Willie," Jackie Jensen and Betty Cibula will direct the second, to be given by Freshmen and Sophomores. Other directors will be Mary Lou Mason and James Cope; Dolores Poorbaugh, Joan Combs and Jack Ware.

Varsity club members elected Jay Leach president at the first meeting this fall. Other officers are: Vice president, Charles Franks; secretary, Francis Lannoy; treasurer, Charles Schaefer. Ben Barrett, coach, will be advisor with Robert Miller and Frank Tarr as assistants.

$43,970 SET AS GOAL FOR CHEST DRIVE

Plans for Campaign Opening Oct. 17 Are Made At Friday Meeting

A 1944-45 War Chest of $43,970 will be sought in Salem—$23,670 for eight Salem agencies and $20,300 as the city's share of the National War fund.

The goal for this year's campaign, which will get under way Tuesday evening, Oct. 17, was determined at a meeting of the Salem Community Chest directors in the Memorial building last night, at which Chairman R. S. McCulloch presided.

The increase of more than $3,000 over last year's budget is largely for organizations in Salem, the National War fund quota having been increased only a few hundred dollars.

The Salvation Army's allocation was increased from $2,175 to $2,500 for local purposes and another $500 was added as the local corps share of the Army's overseas war budget, making the total $3,000. The extra $500, however, was set up only for this year as an emergency fund.

The campaign will be in charge of Campaign Chairman F. W. McKee and his assistant, E. M. Stephenson.

Team workers, captains and the executive committee will meet in the Memorial building Tuesday evening, Oct. 17, for instructions and the campaign will continue through out that week.

At that opening meeting an address will be delivered by Charles D. Hurley, world traveler and former secretary of the international committee of the Y. M. C. A. He will speak particularly about War Prisoners and Y. M. C. A., a participating agency of the National War fund.

The eight participating agencies in the Community Chest and the amounts granted them last night are:

Boy Scouts $1,620; Girl Scouts $1,800; Home For Aged Women $1,500; Catholic Charities $1,500; Salvation Army 2,500 plus $500 overseas war fund; Memorial building $6,750; Salem City Hospital $5,000; Central Clinic Hospital $2,500, total $23,670.

The National War fund of $20,300 is Salem's share of the Northern Columbia county quota of $38,038. The county quota is $76,076, half of which is to be raised in the southern part of the county. Atty. Ralph Atkinson is in charge of the north county campaign.

AKRON U. ASSISTS IN TRADES CLASS NEWEST PROGRAM

Offering courses in college algebra and trigonometry as a part of the Salem Trades evening classes, Holland Cameron, trades class coordinator, today announced that the first session of the new Akron university extension class would be held in the High School building at 7 p. m. Oct. 2.

The service will offer college algebra the first semester and trigonometry the second, Cameron said. Authorization of the courses here was received yesterday from Akron university officials.

Teacher for the mathematics extension service will be J. R. Moor, member of the Trades Class staff and a graduate of Akron university. Cameron said the courses would be offered at a tuition rate set by the university. Registration can be made on the first night of class, he said, but added that students interested were urged to make application at his office in the High School building before the opening date.

Germans' Mad Flight, Allies' Gains Halted At Nazi Border

By WES GALLAGHER
Associated Press Writer

WITH THE U. S. THIRD ARMY IN FRANCE, Sept. 23—More and more it is becoming clear that the Allies have a gigantic task ahead of them if they are to finish the war this year.

The mad flight of the Germans and the sweeping gains of the Allies of the past summer have halted at the German border. There is no hiding the fact that for the last two or three weeks the gains have been small and won at high cost.

There is no doubt who is winning the war. The Germans are being beaten in every battle but they are fighting with the tenacious fury of trapped tigers.

What the Russians did—the Germans and Hitler's followers—now are trying to do to the Allies. Every house and every natural obstacle has been turned into a trap for any harvest of death it may yield.

German soldiers know the war is lost but they have been convinced by Hitler that there is no hope for them in unconditional surrender—that they will be wiped out by the infuriated peoples of Europe anyway and that they might as well go down fighting in the hope of making the cost of victory so high the Allies will be willing to compromise.

Defending Own Land Now

The spectacular airborne landing in Holland will speed the Allied advance in the west but the full fruits of this are not yet apparent and such a huge operation is not possible on every front.

The German ability to wage war has been dreadfully crippled by heavy casualties on this and the eastern front coupled with air blows, but failing back into Germany has given them advantages of easy supply with stocks close at hand, of fighting in friendly country and the psychological spur of fighting for hearts and homes.

These same factors enabled the Russians to hold the Germans in 1941 and 1942 and military men feel it would be stupid to rate the Germans any less courageous under fire.

PVT. FRED S. ZECK WOUNDED IN FRANCE

Pvt. Fred Zeck, 32, son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Zeck of Jennings ave., has been wounded in action in France according to a War department telegram received by his parents today.

A veteran of four months overseas, Pvt. Zeck entered the service eight months ago and trained at Camp Blanding, Fla. He lived in Elvira before his induction last year.

His address is: Pvt. Fred S. Zeck, 35925668, Co. C, 116th Inf., APO 99, care of postmaster, New York City.

der the same circumstances than any other race.

Despite the split between the Nazis and the German military caste, Hitler is being obeyed. German soldiers are fighting and dying rather than give up an inch.

For the past week American forces west of Nancy have been attacking an estimated 2,000 Germans in a wood in some of the heaviest small-scale actions of the war. The Germans have been cut off by the Allies and are fighting to the last.

Farther north on the edge of Alsace-Lorraine German tank forces outnumbered three or four to one without adequate infantry support have been attacking almost continuously for four days.

New Secret Weapon?

These do not appear to be the actions of people ready to throw in the sponge.

Some few prisoners say they believe Hitler has a new secret weapon.

Churches In County Making Plans For Oratorical Contest

Churches of Columbiana county are participating in the 20th annual Prince of Peace declamation contest conducted by the Ohio Council of Churches, according to Rev. J. M. Cox, pastor of the First Presbyterian church in Lisbon, who is serving as county leader.

Each church in the Peace Crusade will conduct a local declamation contest for its young people, 14 to 18 years of age, in which the contestants will deliver declamations on the fundamental considerations of establishing a just and durable peace. Declamations chosen and adopted from prize-winning orations given in state inter-collegiate peace oratorical contests from a number of states will be provided for the contestants.

Rev. Cox urges all churches to enroll immediately so as to give their young people ample time to

Enemy Severs 'Rescue Road' 25 Miles South

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Sept. 23—British armor bolstered by American parachute troops slashed through a six-mile German barrier of blood and steel to the southern bank of the Rhine branch opposite Arnhem today, and roared out with artillery support for an isolated British airborne division holding on grimly north of the river.

But 25 to 30 miles south, German armor cut the "rescue road" from Eindhoven to Nijmegen last night, and a swirling, see-saw battle raged along the relief route up which the British Second Army had pushed.

The breakthrough slicing to the Rhine below Arnhem was made in a six-mile drive by one of Britain's finest tank regiments supported by U. S. airborne troops fighting as infantry.

It already had linked up with another airborne force dropped as reinforcements just two days ago below the upper arm of the Rhine.

The drive vastly eased a situation which last night was described as critical.

JAPS HINT OF FLEET BATTLE

Promise Blow at Enemy; Betray Philippine Invasion Fear

(By Associated Press)

U. S. PACIFIC FLEET HEADQUARTERS, Pearl Harbor, Sept. 23.—Tokyo radio betrayed Japan's growing alarm over implications of the first American carrier blast at Manila, filling the airways with "invasion" speculation—even reporting the Philippines' puppet government had declared war on the United States.

Navy headquarters here left the enemy to his confusion.

Last night's communique, the first since disclosure that carrier planes knocked out 205 enemy aircraft and 37 ships at Manila Sept. 20, contained no word to confirm enemy reports that the attacks continued Thursday.

The only mention of the Philippines was made in today's communique of Gen. Douglas MacArthur but his announcement of air blows at Japanese shipping off Mindanao covered attacks which preceded the Manila raids.

Last night's official report of Adm. Chester W. Nimitz emphasized the bitter struggle on Peleliu in the Palaus, 515 miles east of the Philippines.

For the fourth straight day, covering action through Thursday, he said the Marines were virtually stalled by Japanese entrenched on a mountain the Leathernecks have dubbed "Bloody Nose Ridge."

The Marines have all eluded the east coast under their control and hold the island's prized airfield.

South of elileu, U. S. 81st division army troops firmly holding Angaur island went after enemy remnants in caves. North of Peleliu, Koror, another island in the Palaus, was shelled Thursday by an American heavy cruiser.

Tokyo radio stuck to the Philippines theme. It broadcast a propagandist claim that an American invasion would offer "the one chance in a thousand years when we could, with one strategic blow, bring complete destruction to the enemy." It referred to "the burning spirit of our naval units on the spot" although its navy was conspicuously absent at Manila and the carrier planes found nothing bigger to hit than a destroyer leader.

Tokyo also said Jose P. Laurel, the puppet president, has announced a declaration of war on the United States and Britain. Immediately after confirming the first carrier attack on the Manila area, Tokyo had said Laurel placed all the hilippines under martial law.

Stricken Sailor Here Is Adopted by Navy Mothers

Mrs. Ann Reilly of Brooklyn, N. Y., has returned home after spending two weeks with her husband, Seaman First Class A. E. Reilly, a patient in Salem City hospital. Seaman Reilly, a parachute rigger, was taken from a train here, en route from Rhode Island to the west coast, to City hospital early in September for an emergency operation.

Since his illness he has been "adopted" by the Salem Navy Mothers club, members of which have visited him at the hospital and entertained his wife during her visit here.

What Comes Afterward?

Again, a WLB study group has bulldozed the way for abandonment of the "little steel" formula by repudiating favorably on a demand for an hourly rate increase, this time by United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers CIO.

WLB reasoning is toward abandonment of the steel formula not only for steel workers, but for all others who can reach the board with a demand. The prospect of abandonment will produce a tidal wave of demands and the board will be swamped more than ever with wage cases. The pending cases which would be cleared away automatically by a new formula will be supplanted with new cases. The entire wage rate structure of the nation will be thrown open for revision.

It is impossible to think of any reason why every person who receives income is not entitled to a share in wage inflation under the same reasoning being applied to the pilot cases leading the parade. Certainly, pay in the armed services and allowances for dependents will have to be revised. There is only one cloud on the horizon, one rift in the lute, one fly in the ointment which Washington is getting ready to rub on the people to make them feel frisky right before they vote—What will be the new formula?

The WLB panels gravely admit the cost of living has gone up, but admit they don't know how much. Nobody knows how much. There are outside, inside and medium estimates, all demonstrably wrong. Yet, without some acceptable estimate there can be no new wage formula at all. The "little steel" formula is ticked for scuttling but before heaving it overboard someone in Mr. Roosevelt's family circle should at least admit it was better than nothing at all.

Fierce Fighting On the Rhine

Whatever may have been wrong with civilian morale when the battle of France was tempting many of us to believe Germany's collapse was imminent is being cured by fierce fighting along the Rhine. It is plain now that Germany is going to be defended to the last ditch and retains sufficient manpower and material to take a heavy toll before final defeat.

Here at home we do not apologize for confidence, but only for some of its effects on civilian behavior. Chiefly, we should apologize for the civilian impulse, when things are going well, to underestimate the sacrifice which inevitably must be made to achieve victory over a determined and resourceful enemy; it is easy to forget that Germans and Japanese are in this war with convictions just as strong as ours and that they have retained throughout the very great advantage of position. As they fall back on their homeland, for the last great battles, it would be unprecedented if they did not fight harder.

We have hoped from the beginning of the war—and even before it began—that some easy way might be found to victory and security. It has been a costly illusion. It is still affecting our thinking. We are paying the price of liberty, but we are distracted too often and too easily from the hard terms of the transaction by good news which is never quite so good as we want to believe it is. The determined resistance along the Rhine is bringing us back to reality. Later, there will be something like this at the climax of the war with Japan. Perhaps by that time we will know there is no cheap, easy or quick way to finish what has been started.

Over the 25-Year Pull

An eastern newspaper recently published a letter from one of its readers with this sober thought about the class prejudice which New Dealers favor as one of their deadliest political weapons: That if they had talked to workers 25 years ago in the same vein there would have been many listeners who were to become high officials in the managements they maligned.

Unless we are expected to assume that the United States is going out of existence with the exodus of the Roosevelt regime, we must assume that management of tomorrow will come from the usual source—today's workers. Yet, in every appeal to prejudice, New Deal spokesmen deny the obvious fact that enterprise in the United States is maintained by this continuous flow of management talent from bench to desk. Over any 25-year pull, management is bound to be replaced for the most part by a new crop developed in the ranks of workers. That, more than mass production, has been the secret of the nation's industrial progress; mass production couldn't have happened without it. Anything so obvious should need no argument, yet for more than a decade it has been cynically disregarded by a clique of politicians with no other talking point.

The Stars Say

For Sunday, September 24

SUNDAY'S horoscope is a disturbing and disruptive one, with much of sudden and unlooked for adventure or experience, although it is not wanting in the promises of eventual happiness and good fortune. It may be that a complete demolition or breaking down of certain old or unwelcome conditions or ties may be necessary to put the life and its associations upon a firmer, happier and more friendly basis.

Those whose birthday it is may have to endure a sudden and disruptive visitation, with complete uprooting of old foundations and affiliations antecedent to a rebuilding of the life and its ambitions upon a firmer, happier and more progressive basis. Much commotion should not be permitted to undermine the health, nervous or emotional stability or sound judgment. Financial loss or other duplicity are the penalty for ill-considered actions or decisions.

A child born on this day may have erratic or strange proclivities, being impulsive, temperamental and high strung. It should be given careful supervision.

For Monday, September 25

Monday's astrological forecast is not a propitious one generally, showing a sinister and sudden force that may result in disruption, treachery, and loss by way of intrigue, sordid or plotting affiliations, intrigue, and betrayal, both in public and private relations. A stern adherence to probity, integrity and adherence to the codes and regular tenets and practices may be of timely assistance.

Those whose birthday it is have a year ahead calling for their utmost tact, discretion, sound judgment as well as probity and high principle, lest they be caught in a net of deception, fraud, intrigue and other sinister snares or pitfalls. This may affect their private relations as well as business. There might be powerful social or affectional compensations with enhanced prestige and good will, in home and business. There should be eventual inheritance as well.

A child born on this day may be stronger and more successful in its domestic, social, cultural and affectional life than in its business association. In these it may be an easy dupe to trickery.

Lethargy

By JAMES THRASHER

Henry Gorrell of the United Press, now with our forces in Germany, describes his surprise at coming through the first days in enemy home territory without being killed or wounded by guerrillas. His feeling is natural, but his good fortune is scarcely surprising.

The German civilian who complacently surrendered his liberty to the Nazi party isn't likely to rise up angrily in the Nazis' defense. He, the middle-aged German beyond military age, happily allowed himself to be hypnotized by Hitler's oratory, even though later the Gestapo had to be dispatched to keep him in his trance.

Now, as one burgher told Mr. Gorrell, the Gestapo is gone and the Germans aren't afraid. They're glad the war is almost over. They want peace and quiet.

States, silence and lethargy have greeted most American troops in Germany thus far. Lethargy will probably remain after the fighting is over. It is the lethargy of a people who love to be led, and who accepted Hitler as the alternative to the bothersome chore of governing themselves. It is a lethargy that will be something to contend with in rebuilding Germany under a rational form of democratic government.

Rare Combination

For a time the relative status of Field Marshal Sir Bernard Montgomery and Lieut.-Gen. Omar Bradley threatened to grow into one of those unpleasant situations which, through no fault of the principals, involves international jealousies, snubs and hard feelings. But General Eisenhower has dispelled the threats with an explanation in which modesty, tact and self-effacing bestowal of credit were masterfully blended.

The smiling Kansan is not only a great general. He is a great diplomat. And that is a rare combination to be admired and treasured.

If you find yourself traveling in circles maybe it's because you're running around too much.

The Effects of Tobacco

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
THE OTHER evening while we were seated around the fire another doctor and I were engaged in the eternal practice of doctors of talking shop, and he asked me—"Which do you think does more harm, alcohol or tobacco?"—and I was reluctantly compelled to reply—"Tobacco."

Understand we were talking about sick people. I was smoking a large, heavy cigar at the time and he was consuming cigarette after cigarette. I do not think that tobacco causes any organic diseases, while alcohol does—cirrhosis of the liver and neuritis, for instance. I do not think cigarettes are coffin nails, that their use leads to pulmonary consumption or interferes with the scholarship of even athletic prowess of college students. But the doctor and I were confining ourselves to sick people and sick people of a certain type—middle aged and elderly people with circulatory disturbances. For this class of people tobacco may be very harmful because of its physiological reactions.

Some Made Worse

The class of people who have trouble with spasm of the blood vessels are certainly made worse by tobacco. These people have anginal heart attacks when the blood vessels supplying the heart muscle contract, or they have difficulties in the circulation of the feet and hands, which in mild stages amount to no more than cold or tingling extremities, but may go on, especially if complicated by diabetes to ulceration of the skin or even gangrene.

Tobacco makes these conditions worse, probably by bringing on spasm of the blood vessels.

Some controversy has arisen as to whether tobacco itself causes the spasm. One school represented by careful investigators found the effects to occur with demintized cigarettes and even corn silk cigarettes. They attributed the vessel changes to stimulation of the sympathetic nervous system brought about by irritating effect of any kind of smoke on the mouth and bronchial tubes.

The latest piece of research on the subject, however, from the section on clinical physiology of the Mayo Clinic, goes over the matter taking every precaution against error. The experiments were made on non-suggestible subjects, all habitual smokers in a room with a constant temperature and humidity. Comparison was made when the subjects smoked cigarettes of

by Faith Baldwin

CHAPTER THIRTY-SEVEN
Matthew went over and took her arms. "Darling, you're tired. Why don't you go to bed? The rest of the day? I'll be home when you wake up."

"I'm not tired," she denied in a little voice, choked and husky. "What?" he asked, smoothing her hair back from her face, kissing her forehead.

Matthew said, holding her close. "I love you. It's wonderful. It's all we have, Matthew, and I want you. Because if we can't have you, darling, I won't go on. No matter how much I love you."

He picked her up, carried her to her room, put her down on the bed and went out to consult with the nurse. When he came back he sat beside her, as she lay there, not stirring, the tears running down her cheeks, and took her in his hand.

He said, half laughing, half crying, "Oh, no, Matthew; that's silly."

He said, frowning, "You might as well pick up a— But no, Judith, I'll get tickets for something tomorrow night, and we'll celebrate by dining out. Try to sleep tonight, and remember," he said, "I love you."

When the door had closed, Judith was looking at it. Matthew had said she loved him. That was the paramount issue. Nothing else was shadow, this substance, was it not?

She thought: It's been a troubled life, so many adjustments to make. Perhaps I'm oversensitive or something. I never used to be. There must be some way....

And then Judith thought of a time ago, when she had first loved that she loved Matthew; peacefully, in those days, for Irene's wife; when she had told him, I don't even like him yet I love him terribly.

She loved him now, no less; but she loved him, no more.

Matthew rose and then bent to her. "What you need is a little rest. I'll get tickets for something tomorrow night, and we'll celebrate by dining out. Try to sleep tonight, and remember," he said, "I love you."

utterly absurd, but Matthew disapproved.

"Disapprove?"

"He said--we were being talked about," Mary colored faintly.

"You and Lynn? But that's mad," protested Judith. "And what's more," she added, "it's just an excuse. Matthew's saying that, I mean."

"Excuse?"

"Look," said Judith, "Matthew didn't in the least object to your association with Lynn before Mrs. Mortimer died. And if ever you were going to be talked about it was then, wasn't it? When he was still married, even though his wife was hopelessly insane and in an asylum--"

Mary observed defensively, "We've known Lynn for so long. Matthew grew up, accepting him in a way, as one of the family."

"The family lawyer," said Judith, "old dog Tray."

"Judith!" began Mary, smiling against her will. "Please--"

"Oh, I know. I'm Frank and Earnest, two nice boys rarely met with in polite society. But don't you see.... as long as Lynn wasn't free to marry you, Matthew couldn't persuade himself that your friendship was a pleasant thing and not in the least unconventional. But now--"

Mary asked sharply, "Have you and Matthew been discussing me?"

"Sorry, darling," Judith told her. "Yes, of course.... over a long period of time, very occasionally."

"I don't like it," declared Matthew's mother.

Judith said gently, "It's your own business and I've no right to say anything at all. It's just," she said with considerable bitterness, "that Matthew doesn't like to share his womenfolk."

Mary asserted slowly, "But I don't intend to remarry."

Judith asked, her eyes straight ahead, "Don't answer this, if you'd rather not, Mary, but has Lynn ever asked you?"

"Yes, any number of times."

"Then why don't you? You're perfectly suited. You love each other, or don't you?"

"Love," asked Mary, "at my age?"

"Good heavens, you'd think you were eighty! You look younger and prettier than you did when I first came back to New York. And of course, Lynn's been in love with you for years and years."

Mary said after a little while, "I like Lynn. Mortimer better than any man I have ever known. I trust him completely. I'm fond of him--but--"

"That's not enough," exclaimed Judith, "even at your age!" She turned her small animated face toward her mother-in-law as the latter said slowly, "The first time he spoke outright was the night of Irene's accident. I thought then that--perhaps.... I frightened me. It was, at that time, altogether hopeless."

Judith went on, "You're just not letting yourself realize that you are in love with him. It isn't fair to him, Mary. You're keeping him from someone else."

"I'm not a dog in the manger!"

"Lynn's a very attractive man," Judith reminded her. "I remember Mrs. Mortimer--what was her name?--En--"

LEAVES FROM A WAR CORRESPONDENT'S NOTEBOOK

by Hal Boyle

IN AMERICAN-OCCUPIED GERMANY, Sept. 21--(Delayed)--German troops--chiefly men just called up--have begun quietly to desert from their hodgepodge but still fighting army facing the American front in the Reich.

They do not usually walk over to give up. They just grab the first chance they get to change their uniforms, and join columns of refugees.

"We pick up eight or ten of these army deserters in every little town we take," said Capt. John B. Jackson of New Canaan, Conn., who said it was something of a police problem to detect them from legitimate refugees.

The officer said that to spur enlistments Hitler recently gave "volunteers" their choice of which German frontier they wished to defend. They generally chose the area nearest their own homes.

"Some new troops sent in to man the Siegfried line brought their civilian clothing along in their baggage," Jackson said.

"Hitler brats," teen-age boys and girls who belonged to various German youth organizations, are coming again under parental control in American-occupied German districts.

Father or mother can now apply a switch to the backside of little Fritz or Brunhild without worrying whether these juvenile political monsters will tell the Nazis their parents listened to British radio broadcasts late at night.

As a result of the propaganda handed out by the Nazi party in recent years many children gained a twisted loyalty to the Hitler regime which in many cases made them actual spies in their own homes against their relatives and neighbors.

Tattling to Nazi officials by these seemingly innocent children is believed to have cost the lives of some pro-Alied Germans and the imprisonment and property confiscation of others.

"But these 13 to 16 years-old German boys and girls now have become scared since their country is invaded and they have seen Nazi chiefs they had been taught to follow cringe in fear," said one American major dealing with the problem of how to handle German refugee groups. "Their fanaticism has disappeared. Their mothers and grandmothers have told them their day of glory is over and that they will do as they are told at home."

"I was a member of the Hitler youth movement," said one tow-headed youngster, "but now I am glad I can be a Boy Scout again."

Today's News From Washington

"I like this little house," said Mary, as they went in and found a fire blazing on the big stone hearth. It's perfect."

"I thought it would be," murmured Judith.

"You thought? But that's the past tense."

Judith explained, "It was to be an escape, a sort of hideaway for relaxation--when we weren't alone--just the people whom we loved around us. But it's become a sort of roadhouse. Lots of weekends Matthew doesn't get here at all but the place is always full."

The caretaker's wife, Mrs. Barber, came in with the tea service. When she had gone and they sat drinking their tea, Mary asked, "What's wrong between you and Matthew, Judith?"

"I can't explain it."

"But you have everything," said her mother-in-law.

"Because we're young and in love," queried Judith, "and because Matthew's a success and we have money and all that? That isn't everything.... or am I crazy?"

"Most people would think you are," Mary replied cautiously. "Is it because you haven't a child, Judith?"

"That's part of it," said Judith; "it isn't all."

THOMAS E. DEWEY Says:

"When we have won the war, we shall still have to win the peace. We are agreed, all of us, that America will participate with other sovereign nations in a cooperative effort to prevent future wars. Let us face up boldly to the magnitude of that task. We shall not make secure the peace of the world by mere words. We can't do it simply by drawing up a fine-sounding treaty. It can't be the work of any one man or of a little group of rulers who meet together in private conferences. The structure of peace must be built. It must be the work of many men. We must have as our representatives in this task the ablest men and women America can produce, and the structure they join in building must rest upon the solid rock of a united American public opinion."

Neglect of Child's First Teeth May Harm 'Seconds'

BY ALICIA HART

A mother gambles on the future good looks of her child when she ignores cavities and poor alignment in baby teeth. The good looks and soundness of the permanent set depend upon the care given to these little forerunners.

A mother who takes nothing for granted will show the first full flock of baby teeth, which add up to 20, to the dentist, and will have the young miss in the good doctors' chair before she reaches the ripe old age of three to have cavities filled, any starts from foods or medicine removed.

If the first set of teeth show any signs of crowding up or straying out of line, a wise mother will have these checked on and watched over by an orthodontist.

There is only one excuse for telling Helen Conner's story

MY FATHER was born in Russia but he came to America years ago. With my brothers Al and Mike, I was brought up as a good American.

"When I was in my teens I met a handsome young Navy man at a Shriner's convention in San Francisco. His name was Bryan Conner. It was love at first sight—and you know the reputation of the Navy for action. Bryan proposed that night. He didn't know when we could marry because he had to get right back to his destroyer. But we weren't going to wait.

"I rented a motor boat, went out to the destroyer and talked to the captain. In five minutes Bryan was on his way back to shore and we were married.

"As time passed we had a fine baby boy. We named him William. By the time Bill was growing into young manhood my husband was assigned to recruiting service in Atlanta. He and Bill had great times hunting and fishing together. We were a happy family. My two brothers visited us often and we'd have the jolliest parties and picnics.

"Then the war started in Europe. Our son came to us one night and explained how he felt about it. He wanted to be prepared so he enlisted.

"Like any mother I hated him to leave home—but I couldn't stand in his way. Bill joined up.

"Pearl Harbor was more than my husband could take. He had lots of friends on the Arizona, the Utah, and other ships. He was 48 years old but he asked for active duty and he got it—on a PT boat in the South Pacific.

"My brothers got in too—Al in the Army, Mike in the Seabees. There they were—all four of them in it, my husband and brother Mike in the Pacific; my son and brother Al in Africa.

"I had to do something. So I went to welding school. After I finished school I taught welding. My thoughts were always with my husband, my son, and my brothers. I was working for them. I was living for their return. On June 30th of last year I opened this telegram:

The Secretary of War desires that I tender his deepest sympathy to you in the loss of your son. Report received states that he was killed in action on June 28th in the North African Theatre of War.

"Four days later, on the 4th of July, I got another message:

Deeply regret to inform you that your brother, Michael Zadorkin, was killed in action in performance of his duty and in the service of his country in the South Pacific on July 2, 1943.

"On July 8th I read:

The Secretary of War desires that I tender his deepest sympathy to you in the loss of your brother, Allan Zadorkin. Report received states he was killed in action on July 6th, 1943.

"Some time later I saw my husband. He was as shocked as I was about the death of our only son and my two brothers. But he was all the more determined to fight on.

"I remember seeing him off. It was at a submarine base in Florida. At two in the morning. There was a light mist over the harbor. I kissed my husband and he went aboard his PT boat. I watched him as long as I could see him waving good-bye.

"It wasn't many weeks later that I opened a final message:

Deeply regret to inform you your husband, William Jennings Bryan Conner was killed in action in performance of his duty and in the service of his country.

"I am not asking for pity. Not even sympathy. My men died the way they would have liked to die—fighting. We must carry on their fight.

"I won't be meeting my boy or my husband or my brothers again, but I want to see to it that other women get their men back.

"The last thing my husband wrote me was: 'Keep up the good work at the bomber plant.' That's what I am doing . . . welding and riveting. And I'm going to keep on doing it as long as I can stand on my two feet. I am going to stay at my job. I am going to buy War Bonds. I'm not licked and I never will be. I'm going to live to see that day—that great day—when our enemies are made to pay in full for the lives they have taken away from all of us."

That is Helen Conner's story. Her tragedy is made public here only because it makes this fact crystal-clear: a war can be won only by sacrifice.

Buying War Bonds may call for sacrifice on our part. But when our sacrifice is compared to that of Helen Conner or her men, doesn't it make you feel that putting every last cent into War Bonds is really little enough to do? See if you can't buy another Bond—today.

Walter "Boom Boom" Beck Helps Detroit Stay In First

Tigers Cop One Half Game On Browns By Virtue Of A Double Win Over Red Sox

BY JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

Walter "Boom Boom" Beck, veteran relief performer who was pitching in the American league when Hal Newhouse was a 3-year-old kiddie car rider and Dizy Trout was a third grade student, was one reason Detroit was still in first place today.

The Tigers held a one-game edge on St. Louis because Beck had the tuff to hold back Boston in the second game of an important double-header at Detroit yesterday after scoring the winning run in a 6-5 victory. Steve O'Neill's crew had won the opener, 7-4.

St. Louis shawed Philadelphia last night, 4-2, and would have won the lead if Beck hadn't put the bracelets on the Red Sox in a two-inning job.

His First Win
Beck hadn't won all season after looking on with the Tigers when he got the gate from a minor league manager's job.

Sig Jakucki, another of baseball's remen, saved the Browns by retiring the last nine men in order when Philadelphia threatened to nibble on St. Louis' two run lead. Bobo Newson allowed only five hits before bowing for a pinch hitter in the eighth but yielded a two-run triple and single runs in the ninth and sixth.

New York kept its hope alive by topping Cleveland, 7-3. The Yanks trailed Detroit by 3½ games with only 10 to play.

The Newly-crowned St. Louis Cardinals were humiliated, 11-2, by Boston's Nate Andrews and Chicago took a strangle hold on fourth place by routing the Giants, 8-1, in the only National league contests.

Asks For It

BOSTON — "Hurray, I'm a new daddy — haven't you anything to say to me?" Pitcher Tex Hughson of the Boston Red Sox yelled to roommate, Emmett O'Neill, one morning at 4 o'clock after receiving a telephone call from the family doctor. "Sure, I've got something to say," murmured O'Neill sleepily. "I wish your wife would arrange to have her babies in the afternoon."

Gets Frothy Fish

AMARILLO, Tex. — Amarillo has a new story about the perils of wartime eating out. A customer ordered corn cakes at a coffee shop and soon was frothing at the mouth. The chef had used soap flakes instead of corn flakes in making the batter.

EAST LIVERPOOL'S POTTERS DOWN BIG RED EASILY, 21-7

Show Vast Improvement Over Last Week's Open-er Gain Freely

STUEBENVILLE, Sept. 22. — Showing a vast improvement over their opener last week, the East Liverpool Pottery powerhouse rolled over a Steubenville Red squad, 21-7, here last night before nearly 4,500 fans.

With Fullback Henry Pack scoring all three Potter points and Tackle Rudy Trbovich kicking three extra points, the Capezutti lads had the edge nine to four in first downs and 124 to 49 in net yards gained.

Just 13 plays after they first touched the pigskin, the Ceramic city lads had tallied their first marker. Pack plunged over from the one yard line. The score was set up by a pretty 20 yard dash through left tackle by Veteran Half Bobby Ward. The kick was good, Trbovich booting.

The second period went scoreless but in the early minutes of the second half, Bob McGraw's punt was partially poked and bounded out on the Joe Gillian tossed a diagonal loop to Jim Robinson on the Potter 15 and he got to the eight before Alonzo Spencer, Potter halfback, pulled him down from behind. Gillian then slipped through right tackle for the only Steubenville score. Rowe made the extra and it was tied, 7-7.

A few minutes later Sam Winters climbed through the Big Red defenses and blocked Dick Gibbs' kick to give the Potters the oval on the Big Red 14. Bob Ward made it to the three yard marker and Pack went through left tackle for the score. Again the conversion was good.

In the final, Gillian punched a kick out on his own 38 to set the stage. Drives carried the ball to the one and Pack went over once again. Trbovich booted the extra.

Snakes have no eyelids, and their eyes are constantly open.

I cut loose with a spurt and was surprised when I ran faster as I began overhauling the field. As I went by Tommy Decker of Indiana the crowd was cheering wildly but my eyes popped out as I flashed past Fielet to win in 9:14 2-5.

Now my eyes smart when I recall that race, for brave Bill Fielet was killed in action in the Philippines.

Engine water will probably not be used to heat the post-war motor coach. This system will be replaced by new air conditioning.

Columbiana, Leetonia In Afternoon Contests: Salem In Ravenna

Besides the Salem-Ravenna clash in Ravenna at 2:30 p. m., six other district schools are slated for action today.

As Ben Barrett's charges tee off against the products of Coach Harry Gilcrest's efforts, Columbiana's powerful Clippers will be hot after their second Tri-County league victory at Louisville. Armed with an enthusiastic will to win, the John Cabas lads are determined to bring home the bacon against the hard-fighting Riders.

Down Leetonia way a stiff and crowd-drawing battle is expected to result from the meeting of Coach James McBride's squad and the charges of Coach Joe Morbito from Canfield. Big, fast and well-trained, the Canfield aggregation will be in there to post a win over Morbito's home town team.

A large crowd is expected at the game in view of Leetonia's might and the return of a home town boy with a ball club all his own. Morbito played at Leetonia High school and coached East Liverpool, Mineral Ridge and Youngstown college before going to Canfield.

Alliance, originally scheduled to meet Canton Lehman at their home field on Friday night, will play the contest tonight as the later part of a double bill in Canton's large Fawcett stadium. Marcus Covert's boys are after win No. 2, and it's likewise for the Polar Bears, who trimmed Louisville last week.

ALLIED EDICT TO NAZIS FIRM

Eisenhower Decries Hard Policy in Dealing With Occupied Germany

(By Associated Press)

LONDON, Sept. 23.—A strict policy in dealing with occupied Germany, including the death penalty for any German aiding the Nazis or deliberately misleading Allied troops, was decried today by Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower.

As a first step, a ban was placed on the Nazi political and military organizations. All were ordered dissolved while "German laws involving discrimination on grounds of race, religion or political opinion are abrogated," said the edict, issued by Supreme Headquarters.

Meanwhile the British press expressed dissatisfaction with the progress made by the Allied war crimes commission in preparing cases against Hitler and other top-ranking Nazis.

The London News Chronicle and Daily Mail, declaring the names of Hitler, Goebbels, Goering and Himmler have not yet been placed on the list of 350 criminals already drafted, said the reason may be that the Allies have not decided how they would be tried.

Eisenhower's statement, which amplified a broadcast to the German people Sept. 18, ordered Nazi party administrative officers to remain at their posts until all funds, records, equipment and property are surrendered.

It also outlined steps for the installation of orderly processes by the Allied military government.

These were listed as the main objectives of the AMG in Germany: To promote the safety and health of the occupying troops, to eliminate Nazism, to maintain public order, to establish suitable civil government in a form sufficient to support military operations, to apprehend war criminals, and to control transfers of certain property in Germany.

The Moscow radio today quoted Pravda as saying that "The Allied nations will not allow Germany any respite. She will be beaten and her leaders will suffer stern punishment."

Pravda declared "Hitler's gangsters" were all "maneuvering to secure a way of escape for themselves."

A social meeting will be held by the Junior Saxons at 8:30 tonight in the club rooms on Railroad st. All members are invited to attend.

• THE THEATER

"The Merry Monahans," musical comedy featuring Donald O'Connor, Peggy Ryan, Jack Oakie and Ann Blythe, will be seen at the State Sunday, Monday and Tuesday.

The story follows the adventures and fortunes of the Monahan family, through vaudeville, the depression, back into musical comedy, with O'Connor and Peggy Ryan as the younger Monahans, Label Jewell as the mother and Oakie as the father whose dearest loves are the bottle, the theater and his family. Young Ann Blythe, whose voice first brought her screen attention, plays her biggest film role to date as the girl O'Connor tries to get into the family.

A double bill shows at the State Wednesday night including a Sherlock Holmes mystery, "The Pearl of Death," with Basil Rathbone, Nigel Bruce, Evelyn Ankers and Dennis Hoey; and a musical comedy, "Ever Since Eve," featuring Bandleader Ina Ray Hutton and her orchestra, Hugh Herbert, Ann Savage, and Billy Gilbert.

At the State Thursday, Friday and Saturday is "Wing and a Prayer," first film story of Uncle Sam's carrier fleet and the planes it looses against the Japanese. Don Ameche, Dana Andrews, William Eythe, Kevin O'Shea, Charles Bickford and Richard Crane have the principal roles.

At The Grand

The Grand's Sunday-Monday double bill includes: "The Mummy's Ghost" with Lon Chaney, John Carradine, Ramsay Ames, Barton MacLane and Robert Lowery; and "Jungle Woman," featuring Evelyn Ankers, J. Carroll Nash, Lois Collier and Acquarretta.

At the Grand Tuesday and Wednesday: "Moonlight and Cactus" with the Andrews Sisters, Leo Carrillo, Elvise Knox and Mitchell Ayers and his band; and "Underground Guerrillas" featuring John Clements, Godfrey Tearle and Tom Walls.

Friday and Saturday features at the Grand: "The Black Hills Express," starring Don "Red" Barry, and "Strangers in the Night," with William Terry and Virginia Grey.

EISENHOWER HURTS KNEE IN FRANCE

LONDON, Sept. 23.—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower wrenched his knee in a recent air crash in a marshy area in France but is fit again, Merrill Mueller disclosed today in a broadcast from Paris.

Mueller, NBC correspondent, said the supreme commander's plane was forced down on a return trip from the front lines and the general wrenched his knee while giving a hand to members of the crew trying to tow the plane off a spot where it had bogged down.

"Otherwise he has never been healthier and he looks fit as a fiddle today," Mueller related.

Mueller quoted the general as saying "the war will last only so long as the Gestapo makes the German nation annihilate itself."

Report New Polio Cases In Five Ohio Counties

COLUMBUS, Sept. 23.—Five Ohio counties each reported a new infantile paralysis case today, raising the year's total to 786 compared with 114 for the same date last year.

They were Darke, Mahoning, Miami, Summit and Washington. Charles Leroy Lengyel, 16 months, of Lorain, O., died yesterday of the disease. Total fatalities for 1944 now are 37 compared with 12 for all of 1943.

NEW RAIDS ON PHILIPPINES

CLOSELY FOLLOWING American disclosure of potent air blows by carrier-based U. S. planes on the Manila area in the central Philippines came the Jap radio report that fresh Allied air raids were being made, causing the head of the puppet government to declare martial law. In the announced raids, U. S. planes destroyed 205 Jap planes, sank or badly damaged 40 Jap ships and battered installations at Manila bay, Cavite navy base, Clark and Henderson airfields and Subic bay. (International)

GOSHEN GRANGERS MARK ANNIVERSARY

Goshen grange's annual "Booster Night" Friday evening was notable as marking the 70th anniversary of its organization, the subordinate and juvenile granges joining in the celebration.

Seven new members were elected to membership and two demits from another grange were received.

Charles W. Mead, probably the oldest member of Goshen grange, gave some reminiscences of the earlier years. The charter was suspended for a few years and of the members who participated in the revival of it the following were present: Mr. and Mrs. T. R. Carr, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Bonsall and Mrs. O. A. Rhodes.

Included in the evening program were demonstrations by Edward Sakely, of the Poland Hustlers 4-H club of "Rope and Its Uses On the Farm," and Elmed Sakely and Floyd Stewart, "Culling the Farm Flock."

Other numbers on the lecture hour program included Mrs. J. S. Hollinger, matron of Goshen grange juveniles; Bruce Weingart, reading; Miss Marilyn Weingart, piano solo; Robert Marty, trumpet solo; reading, "The Tie That Binds," Alfred H. Stratton, and explanation of the grange insurance and cooperative work, Otis A. Rhodes.

Announcement was made that Mahoning county Pomena grange will meet next Friday with Dublin grange at Canfield, and that the young people of Mahoning county granges will meet Wednesday, Oct. 4, at North Lima.

On Oct. 6 the annual inspection of Goshen grange will be held.

Hold Salineville Youth In Theft of Lisbon Car

LISBON, Sept. 23.—A car, belonging to Harry Guy of Lisbon, which was stolen following a robbery at the Lisbon hotel Tuesday night, has been found abandoned in Canton, Sheriff George Hayes said today.

The automobile is believed to have been stolen by a 17-year-old Salineville youth, who is on parole from the Bays Industrial school. Sheriff Hayes said a number of miscellaneous items, all stolen goods, were found in the car. Among the loot was a gold wrist watch which the boy's mother said he had stolen from her.

GERMANS'

on which he has promised to unleash by the end of this month which will turn the tide but most say there is nothing else to do. The professional soldiers fight because they are ordered to do so.

The Allies have their own problems which need time to lick. It took about 50 days to build up the knock-out military punch in Normandy. Since then the Allies have not had time to draw a deep breath.

A flight to the rear with Phil Lt. Edgar Smith #1 Chicago reveals a trail of broken bridges and wrecked communications with countless crews working at top speed to repair them.

The problem is about the same as if all the railroad bridges between New York and Cleveland had been torn up and it suddenly became necessary that Cleveland and Ohio be fed and clothed from New York with all bridging material and most locomotives and rolling stock being brought from England.

Mut Push to Berlin

That is the position of the opposing forces now.

If Hitler were killed and the Nazis thrown from power the position might change overnight but if Hitler stays in power it is an even money bet among the men doing the fighting that there never will be an armistice such as ended the last war.

Many of these men and officers feel the Germans will fight until exhausted and until the army's ability to make war is broken, then the armies will break up and surrender piecemeal and the Nazis will engage in guerrilla warfare. In this case the Allies may have to fight all the way to Berlin before the war could be considered over.

POTTERS TO MEET AGAIN WEDNESDAY

EAST LIVERPOOL, Sept. 23.—Storm clouds in the pottery industry disappeared today, when the United States Pottery Association and the National Brotherhood of Operative Potters agreed to reconvene here next Wednesday for their biennial wage contract conference, which collapsed Monday in Cleveland.

The parley, scheduled three days before the expiration Sept. 30 of a current wage agreement, also will discuss a plan to be used in determining eligibility of 18,000 union workers for 1944 paid vacations under a War Labor board directive, retroactive to 1943, which was issued June 1.

• OBITUARY

JOHN G. ARTER

LISBON, Sept. 23.—John G. Arter, 67, died Thursday night at the County Home where he has been cared for for the past seven months. He was in ill health when he entered the institution, suffering from the infirmities due to age.

John Arter was born and reared in Lisbon, a son of George and Sarah Arter, and his wife, who prior to her marriage was Miss Ann Whitacre of Lisbon, has been dead for a number of years. Following her death he went to Cleveland to live, but returned to Lisbon a few years ago. He is survived by one sister, Mrs. Mary Hyde of Lakewood.

Funeral service was held at Fells funeral home at 3:30 p. m. today in charge of Rev. C. L. C. pastor of the Methodist church. Burial in the Lisbon cemetery.

select and get ready to deliver the declamations in a local contest held in the churches on or before Armistice Sunday, Nov. 5.

Opportunity and Challenge

The contest provides both an opportunity and a challenge to the churches and to their young people. Rev. Cox points out:

"The winner in each local church that has two or more contestants will receive a bronze medal. Following the local contests will be a county contest with a silver medal for the winner. County winners will compete in the congressional district contest for gold medals."

A final state contest provides cash awards totaling $380 in addition to three college scholarships.

Find 4 More Bodies

BELLAIRE, Sept. 23.—Four more bodies had been recovered from the Powhatan mine today, and a fifth, found under a roof fall, had been found. Workers said it might be some time before the body could be removed.

Recovered and identified were the bodies of James Gibson of Glencoe, Fletcher Rieves of Bellaire, Arvel L. Vaughn of Powhatan and Cleeve Wingrove of Captina, W. Va.

Plane Crashes, 2 Killed

PORTSMOUTH, Sept. 23.—Lieut. James P. Dudley, 25, of Kokomo, Ind., and Corp. Henry Rubin, 23, Royal Oak, Mich., were killed when their single-engine plane crashed and burned near South Webster.
